

Message From the Mayor of Banff

On behalf of Banff Town Council and the residents of Banff, I want to thank you for choosing our community for the Banff Foundation for Allograft Pathology and the Canadian Society of Transplantation joint conference.

Banff is a town inside a national park – Canada’s first national park – and a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Including yourselves, we host about four million people from around the world each year with a population of under 8,000 permanent residents.

For those attending in-person, I hope you’re able to explore the vitality of this special place in the mountains, to recharge, and to become re-inspired for your important work, for which we are grateful.

Thank you, and welcome to Banff!

Corrie DiManno
Mayor of Banff
